Two sources of funding for the Mississippi Technology Transfer Center have been approved by the State Senate.

Funding for the center, which is being built at NASA's National Space Technology Laboratories site in Hancock County, was included in two bills passed Thursday, according to Senator Gene Taylor of Bay St. Louis.

"I knew we could bail it out. I just didn't know how strongly."

The senator added that the construction of the building has continued while the legislature has debated over funding.

Supervisors to meet with Corps inspectors

BY DENA BISNETTE
The Hancock County Board of Supervisors will meet Monday with representatives of the US Army Corps of Engineers to discuss the possibility of $250,000 in emergency funding for beachfront repair.

The county will have to put up 25 percent of the $250,000 in matching funds if a repair project can be designed.

The board is also expected to discuss whether or not the county will put up matching funds for a two-year study the Corps proposes.

That study could result in a $10 million to $12 million beachfront reconstruction project if the board agrees to participate.

Bay School Board names superintendent

BY DENA BISNETTE
The Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District's new superintendent of education is Roger D. Oge' of Jena, La.

Oge', who is presently the superintendent of schools in LaSalle Parish, La., was selected on the recommendation of a superintendent search committee formed last year at the recommendation of School Board President Walter Turcotte.

He did not comment directly on the selection of Oge'.

The recommendation was presented at a special board meeting Friday afternoon by committee spokesperson Betty Diboll, one of two school board members on the committee.

He said he felt the committee had been "influenced by individuals outside the selection process" and had "disrupted the unity of the school system and the community."

Turcotte, who had served 10 years on the board with five of them as president, said he has no animosity to members of the board or the committee concerning the selection process, which he stated "has castigated one individual in this school system beyond belief."

Diboll said the committee had chosen Oge' out of a number of applicants "from all over the country."

He declined to say who that individual is both when addressing the board or after the meeting, but he apologized to him publicly.

Turcotte also stated that he wished to give credit to the board members for the beneficial changes in the district during his 10 years in office, but added that he accepts the responsibility for any shortcomings himself.

Turcotte also praised the large number of people who turned out for the meeting and urged continued community participation.

"Don't just make it a point to come when there's something of special interest to you. Be involved, but try not to interfere with the daily functions of the board," he said.

Turcotte did not vote since the president of the board votes only to break a tie.

Also addressing the meeting was J.D. McCullough, who announced his retirement as superintendent in November but agreed to continue in office until a successor could be found.

McCullough expressed appreciation to the committee and offered to assist Oge' once he takes office.

Turcotte, who stepped down from his office at the adjournment of the meeting and will be succeeded by

He also commended Turcotte on his service to the district.

"I see a new day for our system," Board member Danny Carter commented after Oge' was approved by the board. "I see where the board is doing an about face and allowing the community to get involved again in running our schools."

At Thursday's meeting, the board:

Judge Griffin to seek State Supreme Court justice post

By ELLIS CUEVAS
Circuit Court Judge J. Ruble Griffin announced Friday he will be a candidate for State Supreme Court justice, Southern District.

Homestead Exemption in Webster.

The announcement was made by Griffin at the Biloxi Bar Association's monthly meeting held at the Pops Ferry Restaurant.

In an interview Judge Griffin stated, "The people of Hancock County have been good to me and if I am elected to the state office, I hope it doesn't take me away as a permanent resident."

Griffin, a resident of Bay St. Louis, will be seeking the position held by Chief Justice Neville Patterson whose term expires in January 1988. Patterson will not seek reelection.

He said the position would call for being in Jackson during weekdays.

Griffin, whose term as Circuit Court judge expires January 1987, was appointed by Gov. Bill Waller after Circuit Court Judge Harry Walker was elected to the State Supreme Court in 1973.

Prior to making his decision to seek the position of State Supreme Court justice, Griffin said he spoke to the majority of the Chancery and Circuit Court judges in the 31 counties comprising the district, and received favorable support.

Griffin was unopposed in three runs for the office of Circuit Court judge and became senior judge in January 1982, when he began his third term.

"Without the support of the Chancery and Circuit Court judges, I would not attempt to run," Griffin stated.

"There is an old law on the books that states a Chancery or Circuit Court judge elected to the state Supreme Court must sit out one year before taking office," Griffin allowed.

A graduate of Wood Junior College, he received his law degree from Ole Miss in 1948.

A native of Chickaway County, Griffin says his father's farm was on the Webster county line and claimed

He came to Bay St. Louis in 1965 and was active in the law firm of Favre and Griffin, until his appointment to Circuit Court judge in 1973.

A member of the paratroopers, he served overseas during World War II and is a member of the Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post No. 139 and the Theodore S. Price Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 3263, both in Bay St. Louis.

Griffin is married to the former

Ruth Lollar of Ruleville.

They are the parents of one son, Pat Griffin of Jackson, comptroller of Hinds County; a daughter, Martha (Griffin) Thompson who is an attorney and an administrative law judge for state workers compensation. She and her husband have one daughter.

Patrol budget cuts expected to reduce highway protection

BY DENA BISNETTE

Hancock County could lose two of its five state troopers if the state legislature approves funding cuts for the Mississippi Highway Patrol.

According to Tom Daniels of the patrol's public affairs division, the cuts would result in the laying off of younger troopers and the transfer of others.

Hancock County would probably lose troopers Fred Keel and Houston Dorr while David Kenny would be transferred to the Brookhaven District, Daniels said. Troopers Curtis Newman and Tony Greer would probably remain assigned to Hancock County.

That would be under the present system of assigning troopers, which is based on population, according to Colonel George Saxon, chief of the patrol and former commander of Troop K in Gulfport.

Saxon said no decision had been made as of Friday because the patrol does not know how its budget will fare under the pending legislation, but a plan is being worked out to assign troopers based on the number of accidents, traffic counts, miles of highway and other factors as well as population.

Troop K, which serves Hancock, Harrison, Jackson, Stone, George and Pearl River Counties, could lose about 14 officers and most of its drivers' license examining stations, including the part-time one in Bay St. Louis.

Many investigators will be reassigned to the road, leaving local sheriff and police departments without their assistance, Saxon added.

Daniels said that another problem will be obtaining the assistance of a trooper at an accident scene.

If the cuts are made and lay-offs begin, troopers will have to cover more highway miles and may be farther away from an accident site than they would be now.

In addition, a US Supreme Court decision known as Garcia v. San Antonio allows public employees to work only 40 hours per week, and if all available patrolmen in one county had worked their 40 hours, troopers from other counties would have to be sent in, leaving those counties short-handed.

The cuts would also result in the loss of a large amount of tax revenue, Saxon said. Counties receive some of their funds through tickets written by state troopers and would lose much of it if fewer officers wrote tickets.

Fatality, injury and property damage rates could also go up, resulting in rate hikes on automobile insurance.

Kennedy and Sheriff Ronald Peterson appeared before the Hancock County Board of Supervisors Thursday to ask the board to contact their legislators to oppose the proposed cuts.

Action was expected in the legislature Thursday but will probably take place sometime this week.

Saxon said he had been assured by legislators "that something can be worked out" and added that many patrol activities, such as the beginning of a training class for new troopers, are being delayed until a decision about the proposed cuts is announced.

VA insurance dividend rumor quashed

The Veterans Administration has issued a statement warning World War II veterans that notices being circulated in the state about availability of insurance dividends are not true.

Jackson VA Regional Office Director, Samuel J. Maraman, said the bogus notices take various forms but say primarily that dividends are available on GI insurance even though the policies have lapsed. In his statement Maraman emphasized that dividends are not available on policies that have lapsed.

The official said that similar erroneous notices have appeared periodically since 1948 and have caused confusion and disappointment to a large number of veterans.

Maraman said the VA does not know the source of the misleading information but speculated that it could have stemmed from payment of special dividends in 1951 and 1952 from Congressional action in 1970 which settled all outstanding claims.

"In any case," he said, "anyone who spreads the rumor is not performing a service to veterans. It's a waste of the veterans' postage and it costs thousands of dollars to answer the queries received by VA insurance offices at both St. Paul and Philadelphia."

Selective Service director chosen for top VA post

The White House reports it will nominate Thomas K. Turnage, director of the Selective Service System since late 1981, to succeed Harry N. Walters as administrator of veterans' affairs.

Walters will become president and chief operating officer of Horsehead Industries' Great Lakes Carbon Division, headquartered in Briarcliff Manor, N.Y., effective Feb. 1.

Turnage, who now faces Senate confirmation, would bring an extensive military background to the post. The retired major general came to Selective Service from the Pentagon where he served on special tour with the Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for Reserve Affairs.

His principal duty was to enhance the effectiveness of training and mobilization readiness programs for the selected reserve of all services.

Turnage is a graduate of the Army War College and the Program for Senior Managers in Government at Harvard University.

He was commissioned through the ROTC Program in 1942 and subsequently assigned to all three of the Army's components — Reserve, Active, and National Guard.

He experienced combat as an infantry officer during World War II and the Korean conflict.

Turnage also served as the deputy commanding general of the Military Department in California, as well as commander of the 40th Infantry Division (Mechanized).

He holds a BS in marketing from UCLA and an MS in international relations from George Washington University.

"General Turnage will be a competent administrator," said Congressman G. V. (Sonny) Montgomery.

"He has done an outstanding job for Selective Service, and he has the necessary credentials to tackle the massive responsibilities of leading the Veterans Administration. I have complete faith in his administrative abilities," said Montgomery.

The Veterans Administration, established on July 21, 1930, to bring together under a single agency responsibility for providing Federal benefits to veterans and their dependents, is the Federal government's largest independent agency.

The VA has 235 thousand full-and part-time employees; only the Department of Defense has a larger work force.

The agency, which has an FY '86 budget of $27 billion, operates the largest health care delivery system in the free world — 172 hospitals, 227 outpatient clinics, 110 nursing homes, 16 domiciliaries — and is a major economic force in the Nation's housing and insurance industries.

It currently administers compensation and pension benefit programs for approximately three million veterans and 1.2 million survivors and dependents of veterans.

In addition, the VA provides education benefits, job training and employment assistance, and burial benefits.

Walters' resignation comes as no surprise to those close to the VA who have known for some time of his desire to leave government.

Walters, who became the VA's twelfth administrator in December 1982, is widely recognized as an outspoken and successful director, "one of the best" in the agency's 56-year history, according to Montgomery.

Montgomery said that Walters' strong leadership "brought an added dimension of prestige and integrity" to the agency. "He is tough when he needs to be, he's a good scrapper, he is an amiable fellow, and he lays out a solid game plan. Those are the qualities of an effective leader. They're especially handy when you have to walk the executive/legislative line and please both sides. You've got to be a pretty good diplomat," said Montgomery, "and Harry has certainly been that."

Among Walters' notable accomplishments as head of the VA is the Committee for Employer Support of Veteran Employment. Claiming that "the veteran today is an underutilized national resource," Walters established the committee as a "bridge" between the private sector and veterans seeking productive civilian employment.

Walters also initiated an agency exercise and fitness program designed as a preventive to potential health problems and to promote independence for disabled and aging veterans. The program was also extended to include VA employees in order to increase productivity, reduce health care costs, and boost morale.

Walters also developed and promoted the now-familiar slogan and bumper sticker proclaiming "America is #1, Thanks to Our Veterans."

Four face dynamite charges

Four people face federal charges of possession of explosives in connection with dynamite blasts in western Harrison County.

The four were arrested Tuesday after the sheriff's office received numerous complaints about an explosion Monday night.

A second explosion was heard a short time later by a deputy patrolling near Pass Christian.

Officers stopped a vehicle leaving the area and questioned two men, a sheriff's spokeswoman said.

While questioning the two, officers discovered 225 pounds of dynamite and 111 blasting caps near the side of the road.

David Graham, 35, and Gregory D. Page, 20, both of Gulfport, were arrested. Bond was set at $100,000 each.

After further questioning, investigators of the U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, along with local authorities, went to a rural Pass Christian home and found several more boxes of explosives.

Terry J. Ladner, 36, and Bonnie K. Ladner, 27, were arrested at the home.

From The Governor's Office

Gov. Bill Allain

TAX INCREASES HURT CITIZENS, INDUSTRIES

Many of you have heard or read that I am opposed to any tax increases this year. I have several reasons for saying I will veto any tax bill that comes out of the 1988 Legislature.

First, our people have seen tax increases for the last four or five years. It's bad enough that you have to see your taxes increase; it's worse when those tax increases don't even raise the desired amount of money that the legislators said they would.

Not only did the tax increase approved by last year's Legislature—over my veto—not produce the money necessary for the programs it was designed to fund, but the taxes chosen for increase were counterproductive because they were principally on industries. If we continue to tax industries, we'll never get the jobs necessary to help Mississippi grow economically.

Already, some legislators are talking tax increase. I am encouraged, however, to hear a majority of the lawmakers say they will oppose a tax increase. As I have said, I too oppose any tax increase this year. Why?

We cannot increase sales tax. Our people already pay a 6 percent sales tax, one of the highest state sales taxes in the nation.

If we raise corporate income taxes, we run jobs out of our state and get the reputation among industrialists as a taxing state.

Some legislators have suggested increasing personal income taxes. This is neither a fair nor feasible suggestion because one-fourth of our people are below the poverty level and do not pay income tax. The people in the upper income levels have tax shelters. That leaves only the Mississippians who always end up paying the burden—the middle income people. These are the very people who will have to grapple with the result of the other fiscal problems in state government—like paying higher college tuitions for their children or higher nursing home costs for their parents. It's time to stop squeezing the people who are working every day to make ends meet, who pay more than their fair share, and who want to stay in Mississippi for the rest of their lives. They are the backbone of this state.

Other legislators have suggested raising the so-called "sin" taxes on liquor and tobacco. Due to the good results of the nationwide crackdown on drunk and drugged driving, consumption of these products is down, so a tax on an item with an ever-reducing consumption would yield only a diminishing return.

The same theory holds true for increasing the oil and gas severance tax. In addition, prices for oil are dropping rapidly in the marketplace. In fact, we just reduced our estimate for oil and gas tax collections for next year by more than $20 million. To raise these taxes would be foolish.

We in Mississippi just don't have a tax base that will raise a lot of money in a short time. The answer to our problems is not raising taxes;

it's streamlining government to make our delivery of services as efficient as possible with as little cost and bureaucracy.

LEGISLATIVE PROPOSALS COULD ENDANGER STATE

With the Legislature's apparent reluctance to require the same budgetary treatment of the Highway Department that they do from other state agencies, we are facing a dangerous situation in other state agencies.

Since the Highway Department has a chance of remaining a sacred cow and since they apparently will be allowed to continue to spend all the millions of dollars available while other state agencies are taking devastating budget cuts, the halls of the Legislature are rampant with talk of alternatives to help our ailing budget.

While I usually do not give credence to rumors and speculation, I believe you should know of some of these proposals because they affect some critical needs in this state.

Let me emphasize these suggestions are not endorsed by me and they are not my proposals. In fact, I have made it clear that I am in opposition to these ideas.

The ideas, that are presently being discussed by the staff of the Legislative Budget Committee, are:

Postponing final enactment of the early childhood education program. This would mean that the Legislature would have to undo the good work they did early in the session when they approved this legislation, which I immediately signed into law.

Postponing the $1,000 teacher pay raise. Again, the Legislature would have to undo legislation that I signed into law.

Furloughing state employees for a specific number of days, meaning they would have a certain number of unpaid "holidays."

Cut the few state agencies that are general fund agencies by another 11.5 percent, meaning that universities will be cut another $30 million and junior colleges cut another $6 million.

As I have said, these are not my proposals. I find them as shocking as I imagine you do.

There are two alternatives to repairing the horrible budget mess we are in: changing our budget methods (like making all special fund agencies into general fund agencies and thus available for cuts) or raising taxes.

As I have said before, I oppose any tax increase and will veto any tax increase.

It will run off industry; it will further cripple your personal income; and, if it's like past increases, it won't even raise the necessary money anyway and we'd just be back here next year in the same fix.

I need your help. I need you to call your legislator or talk to him or her on the street. Tell them to look at the highway department for more money. Tell them you don't want your taxes increased. Tell them it's time to stop doing business as usual in our state budget. Tell them to represent the people who sent them to Jackson.

MISSISSIPPI'S FREE ENTERPRISE GAMES

Ten Mississippi high school students will be coming together in Jackson in mid-April, five from the North and five from the South. They represent the best this state has to offer; they are North Mississippi and South Mississippi champions.

They are coming to Jackson to compete for the state championship trophy in the first annual Mississippi Free Enterprise Games.

The two teams survived three rounds of free enterprise competition in February at locations in North Mississippi and South Mississippi.

Approximately sixty public and private high schools took part in the competition. The five-member team from Seminary High School won the South Mississippi championship cup; Lee Academy in Clarksdale captured the North Mississippi trophy. Now these two teams will square off for the state crown in Jackson on April 17.

The Free Enterprise Games are sponsored by the American Enterprise Center, the economic education arm of the Mississippi Economic Council.

There is a purpose in the launching of the Free Enterprise Games. This is just another way to pass on to the next generation of Mississippi's leadership the virtues and values of our economic system.

Mississippians can be proud of the understanding and appreciation of the free enterprise system already being exhibited by some outstanding high school students across the state.

U.S. House keeps VA loan program alive

Approximately 90 thousand additional veterans could receive VA home loans this year as a result of legislation approved unanimously by the House today. The legislation, if enacted, would raise the FY '86 VA home loan guaranty ceiling from $11.5 billion to $18.2 billion and would enable the Veterans Administration to avert an announced April 1 shutdown of the program.

Congressman Richard Shelby (D-AL), Chairman of the Veterans' Affairs Subcommittee on Housing and Memorial Affairs and author of the legislation, explained that the bill "simply corrects an estimation error adopted in the President's February 1 sequestration order" mandated by the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings deficit reduction law.

Shelby emphasized that the bill is not an appropriation measure and that, while allowing thousands of veterans to secure home loans, it will generate approximately $51 million in additional origination fee revenue in FY '86. Veterans pay a one percent origination, or user's, fee on loans obtained through the VA.

The VA recently backed away from implementing home loan guaranty restrictions it had previously announced were to begin March 1. In an effort to sustain the program through this fiscal year, the VA had planned to cap the maximum home loan guaranty amount at $90 thousand and discontinue refinancing. Instead, the VA will allow the program to continue under current policies until it reaches the loan commitment limit.

As a result of the 4.3 percent budget reduction called for under Gramm-Rudman, the VA, the Office of Management and Budget, and the Congressional Budget Office were requested to estimate the overall loan guaranty activity in FY '86 in order to impose a ceiling from which the cut could be made. "Unfortunately," said Shelby, "these agencies fell approximately 50 percent short of the real mark."

Both the VA and CBO have admitted that earlier estimates of 180 thousand home loan guarantees this year did not take into account the low home-mortgage interest rates prevalent in today's market which have resulted in increased home loan activity. Interest rates are at their lowest point in the last six years. Shelby's legislation would revise the ceiling to allow approximately 270 thousand veterans to receive guaranteed home loans, a number based on new VA estimates.

"Now is not the time to start denying loans to veterans who are in the position to buy a home for the first time in six years," said Shelby, adding that "it is not the time to tell them that they can't refinance their loan at 10 and one-half percent when their original loan has a much higher interest rate. Allowing veterans to refinance their loans at lower rates makes them an even safer risk and could lead to a reduction in the foreclosure rate."

"I strongly believe in reducing Federal spending and in balancing the budget," said Shelby. "Therefore, I cannot stress enough that this legislation does not circumvent the intent of Gramm-Rudman, for which I voted. Rather, it assures its proper application."

The revised ceiling would still be subject to a 4.3 percent reduction under Gramm-Rudman, but, according to Shelby, "we've still brought a lot of veterans in from the cold with this legislation."

The Senate is expected to consider a similar measure soon.

WALKING: A NATURAL EXERCISE

I would like to jog, but find the pounding causes pain in my legs and feet. Walking has been mentioned as a substitute, but is walking really exercise?

A. Walking is one of the most enjoyable ways to improve your physical fitness without the potentially harmful consequences of jogging.

Jogging has become the exercise for many Americans in recent years, and is rapidly becoming a national pastime.

In one day, Americans jog an average of 28 million miles. As a result, they burn 2.8 billion calories, or approximately the number of calories in one million pounds of chocolate.

What few people realize, however, is walking produces many of the same benefits of jogging - it just takes longer to recognize them.

Though the conditioning effects of jogging aren't recognized as quickly if walking is substituted, frequent, fast-paced walks improve circulation in the legs and enhance muscle strength. Research shows that a half-hour of walking, five times a week, with a six pound load results in a significant improvement in one's physical condition in less than four weeks.

Walking also can help to keep you in shape once you've achieved good conditioning.

Walking for health is recommended for most everyone for many reasons. It requires no special training; it can be done year-round by nearly anyone, especially the elderly and those with such medical problems as arthritis, emphysema, and heart disease; and it can be done at a variety of speeds and in a variety of ways.

For example, you might walk to work if the distance is reasonable. At work, consider taking the stairs rather than riding the elevator.

Sports which involve walking are valuable. These include golf, hiking, backpacking and hunting.

Another benefit of this underused form of exercise is weight loss. Without reducing calorie intake, walking regularly can help you lose weight.

Other benefits of walking are a decrease in the weakening of the bone due to the aging process, a reduction in blood pressure, and relaxation after a hard day.

As in most other sports, a walking exercise program should include some preliminary thought. You should begin slowly the process of walking to health.

Gradually work up to a pace of three or four miles an hour, for at least half an hour at a time. The pace set should not leave you exhausted.

Instead, the exertion on your heart should be measured by setting pace that increases the heart rate. As you become more fit, you'll be able to increase your walking rate and your time, while maintaining the same heart rate.

Dress appropriately for the weather conditions. This includes wearing the right kind of shoes - running shoes will be best for most situations. In warm weather, wear loose clothing that breathes, and drink plenty of liquids.

In cold weather, layer your clothing so you can shed a layer if you get too warm. Be sure to wear protective coverings for your head and hands during winter months.

Before you begin on your daily walk, you can do stretching exercises similar to those used by joggers to help you get started right.

Check with your doctor, especially if you have any orthopedic problems or chronic illness and to set the heart rate you should set as a goal. Choose a pleasant route and enjoy your walk to health.

Focus on Small Business

U.S. Small Business Administration

By Charles A. Gillis
Manager

Gulport Branch Office

Many small businesses have an important stake in a federal law which directs the Environmental Protection Agency to develop a program for controlling and preventing leakage of hazardous substances in underground storage tanks.

Many of these tanks are owned by small firms, such as service stations, auto dealers and other service businesses. There is a concern among such small business owners that requirements of leak detection devices, more expensive tank systems and tank integrity testing would represent a significant additional cost.

The law specifies that the stiffer regulations become effective between May 1987 and November 1988, depending on the type of tank. EPA estimates that about 250,000 small firms will be regulated under the law.

Last May, EPA instituted a rule barring unprotected installation of new tanks. This interim prohibition requires all new storage tanks to be protected against corrosion or structural failure for the life of the tank.

Several states already have or are developing their own regulatory programs. The federal law is designed to avoid interfering with such state regulations. By May 1987, states may apply to EPA for approval to operate their own programs covering petroleum tanks, hazardous substance tanks, or both. State programs must be at least as stringent as the federal requirements and may even be tougher.

The U.S. Small Business Administration's Office of Advocacy has been working with EPA and has recommended various regulatory options that would minimize the new costs to small businesses, while remaining environmentally sound.

These recommendations include the use of performance standards rather than specific technical standards for leak detection and an improved version of the May interim prohibition in place of new requirements for double-walled tanks or other containment methods.

SBA's Office of Advocacy also has been working with small business trade associations representing regulated tank owners. These associations have formed a group informally known as the "Ad Hoc Underground Tank Coalition."

RECOGNIZING THE SOVIET THREAT

The Soviet Union made a conscious decision years ago not to seek direct confrontation with the United States nor to attempt its conquest. Instead, as Sir Winston Churchill noted, the Soviets sought the "fruits of victory" without having to fire a shot.

Their primary weapon in achieving this end has been a campaign of disinformation and propaganda, as well as so-called "peace" campaigns whose main goals have been attempts to intimidate the West and to divide the U.S. from its allies and friends.

The Soviets have used force directly in Afghanistan. They have engaged proxy countries in their behalf—primarily Cuba—to use force in Angola, Nicaragua, Cambodia and Mozambique. They have made use of proxies in other ways to destabilize and subvert, have encouraged radical states and movements, and have supported international terrorism.

Regardless of the means, their objective has been the same. The Soviets have sought to weaken, or altogether eliminate U.S. influence and presence in various areas, to create through actions the same sense of helplessness and demoralization that their propaganda seeks to generate. Their aim is to create the frame of mind in the U.S. and the West that would seek accommodation rather than confrontation with Soviet might.

It is with this knowledge that we must pay close attention to what is going on in Nicaragua. There is tremendous Soviet and Cuban involvement there with Nicaragua's Marxist-Leninist government—consistent with Moscow's history of undermining freedom around the world.

President Reagan has made a comprehensive proposal to the Congress to address the Soviet threat. Over the next two years, he proposes an aid package to the Democratic Resistance, fighting the Soviet-supported Ortega government in Nicaragua, of $100 million. Of that amount, $30 million would be spent on non-lethal, humanitarian needs, and $70 million would be earmarked by the President as he sees fit, possibly for military aid.

Rather than being new spending, the President is considering proposals to reprogram this aid from money already appropriated for such areas as the United Nations.

His objectives with this aid package are to encourage recognition of the nature of the Soviet threat and to blunt Moscow's para-military and political threat. The President's proposal deserves serious consideration.

Who cares for veterans?

By Rep. G.V. (Sonny) Montgomery
(D-Mississippi)
Chairman, Committee on Veterans' Affairs
U.S. House of Representatives

During the next few years, every time a veteran encounters difficulties in obtaining a VA-administered service or benefit, and this will undoubtedly happen, the primary target of blame will be the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings balanced budget plan.

The name is already being invoked, though not legitimately in some cases, as the culprit of many recent budget ills that might have befallen social and defense programs.

Admittedly, beginning March 1, the impact of the plan will begin to restrict veterans' benefits and services. But I think we should focus our attention on the real problem or, as one veteran so aptly stated, "get on the fire wagon and get to the fire." What is the real threat to veterans' benefits, especially health care benefits?

Today, in 1988, the Veterans Administration health care system, the largest unified health care delivery system in the free world, is operating on a bare-bones budget — it has done so for the last ten years. Still, in the face of inadequate funding, the VA has steadily increased its productivity and efficiency.

The VA's health care responsibilities have grown at a considerably faster pace than has the funding to meet those responsibilities. Demand for care is growing each year, and no one can say with any degree of accuracy when it will reach its peak.

There is no accepted estimate of how many of the 27.8 million living veterans are eligible for VA health care nor the number that will seek VA health care in the future.

As a result, the last person to show up on a particular morning, or perhaps the sickest veteran who needs intensive care at a VA hospital where the intensive care unit is short on staff, may be turned away.

This is because there is no requirement that the VA provide care to a veteran, even if the law says he is eligible for such care.

In the absence of such a requirement, VA studies estimate that between 20 and 30 thousand veterans each month are being turned away from VA medical facilities.

That is shameful, but I hasten to add, it is not the VA's fault. The agency does an excellent job within the resources it is allotted.

The VA's health care budget has grown over the past 10 years. Depending on whether you use the consumer price index or the medical CPI to factor out inflation, the actual dollars spent for veterans medical care have increased by either 17 percent or 39 percent from 1974 to 1984, the year for which hard data are available. For purposes of discussion, I'll use a number in between these two — a 28 percent increase over ten years.

Let's compare this 28 percent increase in expenditures with the change in the workload of the VA health care system over the same period:

- the number of patient visits to VA outpatient clinics has increased by 62 percent — almost 17 million visits in 1984;
- the number of prescriptions filled by VA pharmacists has increased by 47 percent;
- the number of veterans over age 55 being cared for in VA hospitals has increased by 51 percent;
- the total number of inpatients treated has grown by 24 percent.

At the same time, the number of beds operated by the VA has declined by 18 percent, and the turnover rate — the number of patients treated per year in the same VA bed — has increased by nearly 50 percent.

The worldwide medical community has benefitted greatly from the technological advances fostered through VA research. These advances in medical technology have resulted in a significant improvement in the results of treatment furnished to all consumers, including veterans, but this improvement in quality has not been without cost.

For example, an imaging machine such as a CT scanner or a magnetic resonance imaging unit — machines often used as an alternative to X-ray to more accurately diagnose illness — are far more costly than the machines they replace.

In addition, the VA health care system plays a leading role in the education of new doctors — 100 thousand annually — and other health care professionals, but there is a cost involved with this vital function as well.

In other words, both veteran and non-veteran benefit from the quality medical care and research carried out through the Veterans Administration's Department of Medicine and Surgery.

The General Accounting Office has conducted a survey which suggests that many veterans are inappropriately admitted or kept longer in VA hospitals when compared with the private sector. While I think there are some flaws in this survey, I do note that VA health care managers are making a concerted effort to ensure that veterans are not placed or kept in a bed unnecessarily.

Critics of the system also need to remember that the VA cares for many veterans who do not have a private physician, and that veterans often arrive at the hospital with numerous complaints which must be diagnosed before the veteran can be discharged; this inevitably contributes to longer hospital stays in VA hospitals when compared with private and community hospitals.

I have also heard so-called health care experts call for an elimination of the VA health care system altogether, claiming it is inefficient. It is true that there is no incentive to provide a profit to shareholders of the VA health care system.

The people of the United States are the "shareholders" to whom the VA must account. However, the person who has the greatest impact on costs in the VA health care system — the VA physician — is often confronted with a dilemma particular to the agency.

For each dollar that is spent on a patient, there is one less dollar to spend on the patient who needs care next week or next month. This is because unlike the private sector, the budget for veterans' health care is not open-ended.

It is fixed in advance at the beginning of each fiscal year, and in today's circumstances where thousands of eligible veterans are denied VA care each month, there is a real incentive to provide only the care that is truly needed.

The system is not perfect, and abuses do occur; this is true in the private sector as well. However, the VA is both developing and borrowing from the private sector clinical and administrative systems supported by computers to control costs and eliminate inefficiencies. While this is being accomplished, we have to be very careful not to sacrifice the patient's health in the name of cost-containment.

I believe that there are several things which need to be done if we are to honor the commitment to care for veterans who are disabled as a result of service to their country or who are unable to defray the expenses of needed health care.

First, we have to encourage by appropriate means a method of controlling health care costs; it's a complex challenge, and one that is fraught with unresolved ethical and moral questions. But we must confront this problem, and I am encouraged by the progress being made by VA management in this area.

Then, we must clearly define who should get care, decide how best to deliver it, and provide the necessary funds. These steps are the basis of the health care eligibility reform package which was agreed to as part of the stalled reconciliation bill (Title XIX of H.R. 3128). The unacceptable alternatives are to reduce the quality of health care or to deny it altogether.

The health care reforms contained in reconciliation go far toward enabling us to honor our most time-honored and essential contract — the one between this Nation and its defenders. These reforms succinctly state our desire to honor that contract, especially as it pertains to health care.

Our health care eligibility reforms, developed and agreed upon by the House and Senate Veterans' Affairs Committees would require that VA hospital care be furnished to service-connected disabled veterans, low-income veterans and, when resources are available, other eligible veterans; it sets reasonable income levels at which non-service-connected veterans would be required to defray a portion of their medical expenses; and it calls for the implementation of third-party reimbursement, wherein the VA would be authorized to bill private insurance companies for treatment of an insured veteran. It is from the latter that most of the $1.2 billion in required VA savings in the reconciliation bill (H.R. 3128) would be met over the next three years.

These reforms constitute a sincere effort on the part of the Congress and veterans themselves to participate fully in the effort to control government spending. Over the past five years, veterans have contributed more than $2 billion to this tedious process, and they will continue to do their share. But this Nation must continue to uphold its side of the moral contract it entered into more than two centuries ago.

Gramm-Rudman may well prove to be a burr in the side of VA health care, but of greater concern is our need to "get on the fire wagon and get to the real fire" — the VA budget. Gramm-Rudman is only a spark.

It would be morally irresponsible for us to stand by and allow the VA budget to deteriorate into complete ineffectuality. I can think of no sadder commentary, nor one that is more likely to signal to the world a lack of concern for the Nation's defense, than our failure to take care of the Nation's defenders.

EMERGENCY CARE

When accidents happen or illness strikes, the need for prompt, expert medical care can be critical.

Now you can have peace of mind, knowing that 24-hour emergency care is only minutes away.

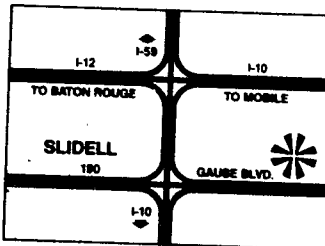

NorthShore Regional Medical Center offers complete round-the-clock emergency medical services:

- The only ambulance service on the North Shore with 24-hour coverage by national registered paramedics, from the emergency site to the hospital. Registered paramedics are specialists in recognizing and responding to life-threatening crises.
- A highly skilled, caring emergency and trauma staff, backed by our medical staff of leading area physicians.
- State-of-the-art equipment in ambulances and the Emergency Room.

Another advantage: tiered-pricing

Tiered-pricing means that you pay only for the degree of care you require. Unlike most hospitals, NorthShore does not charge a flat fee for Emergency Room admissions. In other words, a sore throat doesn't cost you as much as a serious fracture.

For yourself and your loved ones, remember NorthShore's 24-Hour Emergency Care Ambulance Service: 646-5050. Outside Louisiana, call toll-free: 1-800-344-6695.

GI life insurance increases to $50,000

The Veterans Administration has announced an increase in the maximum amount of Servicemen's Group Life Insurance (SGLI) from $35,000 to $50,000, according to Samuel J. Maraman, VA Regional Office Director.

The increase, effective January 1, 1988, is automatic for active duty members of the U.S. Armed Forces. In addition, all reservists, whether protected under full or part-time SGLI coverage, will be automatically covered by the increase.

The automatic increase does not apply to retired reservists with SGLI coverage. These individuals have until January 1, 1987, to apply for the additional coverage.

Maraman said coverage under the Veterans Group Life Insurance (VGLI) program has also been increased by the same amount and is now extended to members of the Individual Ready Reserve and the Inactive National Guard. Eligible individuals may also have reduced coverage in the amount of $10,000, $20,000, $30,000, or $40,000.

The monthly premiums for SGLI/VGLI coverage will remain at present rates. SGLI costs 8 cents per $1,000 coverage, or $4 per month for the full $50,000.

The VGLI premium for individuals 34 and under will stay at 17 cents per thousand, or $8.50 per month for $50,000 coverage. For individuals 35 and over the VGLI premium will remain at 34 cents per thousand or $17 per month for $50,000 coverage.

For further assistance and information veterans and widows may contact Hancock County Veterans Service Officer Mike Ladner at 467-2100 or the Jackson VA Regional Office between 7:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Is an IRA right for you?

You've heard all the talk about Individual Retirement Accounts. The tax break you get. The retirement income you can count on.

But, you're probably wondering if an IRA is right for you.

"Don't you need $2,000?"

If you work, you can start an IRA at Hancock Bank with as little as $5.00. Then, just put in what you want, when you want.

You don't have to contribute every month, or even every year. But your money keeps on working for you, earning interest.

The money you put in is not taxable until you take it out. Even the interest is sheltered.

"How much can I put away?"

If you're employed, you can put up to $2,000 in your IRA. $2,000 each for working couples. Or, a $2,250 combined total for a couple if only one of you is employed.

If you deposit at least $2,000, you're eligible for your choice of 18-month or 30-month fixed-interest rates. Amounts less than $2,000 earn money-market rates that change monthly. When your IRA builds up to $2,000, we'll be happy to lock in a fixed rate for you. It's usually higher.

"Can I still get a break on '85 taxes?"

Yes. You can open an IRA right up until April 15th of 1986, and still apply the tax-savings to your 1985 return.

But don't wait past April 15th. Even if the IRS gives you an extension for your return. That's a firm deadline this year.

"Do you have to itemize?"

No. You can use a regular 1040 form and still get credit for your IRA contribution. It comes right off the top of your taxable income.

"When can I get my money?"

You can start taking money out of your IRA at age 59½. Of course, it's your money, and you can take it out any time you want. But the federal government imposes a 10% penalty for withdrawal before 59½. And if your money is in a fixed-rate time deposit, there may be an additional penalty.

So, think of your IRA as a long-term investment for retirement. Not a temporary tax shelter or savings for emergencies.

When you reach 59½, you can get your

Have a question about IRAs? Call Mae Beth Tracy at 868-4406, Monday through Friday during regular banking hours. She's here to answer your questions about IRAs. Mae Beth can even start your IRA for you over the phone.

IRA in one lump sum, or set up a regular monthly income. Or, if you choose, you can wait until 70½ to start receiving payments.

"I only have a little to put in now. Would I have much by retirement?"

Let's say you're 30 years old, and in the 29% tax bracket. Look at how $50.00 a month would add up:

Estimated value at age 65: (based on 10% interest)
TOTAL DEPOSIT OVER 35 YEARS @ $50.00 PER MONTH	$21,000.00
TAX SAVINGS	6,090.00
TOTAL INVESTMENT	14,910.00
ESTIMATED IRA VALUE	172,252.00
ESTIMATED MONTHLY PAYMENT FOR 15 YEARS	2,027.00
TOTAL RETURN	$364,858.00

"What's a Self-Directed IRA?"

It's a new service offered by Hancock Bank that lets you make the investment decisions on your IRA.

Suppose you want to buy blue-chip stocks, mutual funds, or the new zero-coupon bonds. You simply call Hancock Bank and tell us where you want to invest. We won't advise you — it's your decision. But we can make the investment for you, usually for less than you'd be charged at a regular brokerage firm.

"Can I really start my IRA with a phone call?"

We've tried to clear up some questions about IRAs. And if you're beginning to think an IRA is the way to go for you, you're on the right track.

So, pick up the phone and call Mae Beth Tracy at 868-4406. She'll answer any other questions you might have. Explain the new self-directed IRAs we offer. She'll quote you our current rates.

And, if you like, Mae Beth will fill out an application form with you over the phone and mail it to you. So, all you'll have to do is sign it at home, and send it in with your first deposit.

Or come by any of our offices to ask about IRAs. We're always glad to see you. But, open your IRA now. You'll enjoy the satisfaction of getting a tax break this year. While you build an income for retirement.

Consumer Update

By Janet K. Lukens
Coast Consumer
Management Center
Healthy financial resolutions for 1986...

If you are one of the many who have resolved to make 1986 a better year financially, check this list for some specific changes to make:

- Plan spending with the entire family.
- Buy only those things that fit into the plan and budget.
- Comparison shop for price and value.
- Pay bills on time and avoid interest charges on credit cards.

-Check consumer publications, such as Consumer Reports, on products costing over $100.
-Make sure that a will is written and up-to-date.

On disability income...
The most overlooked form of protection by families today is disability income insurance. It is a defense against loss of income. If a person is not able to work due to an accident or sickness, and suffers from a loss of income, he may face financial disaster. Medical insurance only covers medical bills, but food, rent, utilities and other bills must continue to be paid.

Disability insurance payments are designed to replace earned income that is to be spent as the insured chooses. The income is usually just a portion of the disability income.

Permanent disability can be financially more ruinous than death, since the nonearning, disabled person is physically alive, needs care and is still a "consumer." For this reason, disability insurance should not be discounted. It not only fills a vacuum created by loss of income, but also prevents the liquidation of accumulated assets.

No one knows how long disability income will be needed. Therefore, when studying income protection policies, you should very carefully examine the length of time that benefits are paid. Be concerned about not only when a person is considered disabled and what the monthly benefit will be but also with the duration of the payments. Are they for a few months, to age 65 or for a lifetime?

Policies may be purchased on an individual or a group basis. Most group plans have no provisions for converting to an individual policy. Today homemakers may purchase insurance through many disability insurance companies.

When buying, seek maximum protection for minimum cost from a reputable company which offers good benefits. As with all insurance, disability income is not designed to increase wealth; it is for protection only. Your premiums should buy coverage that will provide three things:

1. the maximum monthly income benefit
2. the longest period of coverage
3. guaranteed reversability

On personal credit management...
Did holidays and the end of 1985 leave a strain on the family finances? If so, you may be one of those who could benefit through the services provided by the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. MCES Consumer Management Centers are set up to work with families and individuals toward a better personal financial management system.

Call for an appointment or more information from Jan Lukens, Area Consumer Management Specialist, at 388-4710; or call your local county extension office. All educational information and services are available to the general public free of charge.

Borrowing without losing

If you have borrowed money in the past year and feel you have made a mistake, consider yourself one of the crowd. Many people are still playing the borrowing game without knowing all the rules and may be making mistakes that could translate into hundreds or thousands of dollars.

One common mistake is in choosing a long-term loan. The shorter the length of the loan, the larger the monthly payment. But the marketplace is flooded with financing for 48 to 60 months; this does reduce monthly payments, but greatly increases the total finance charges. Some opt for a variable rate installment loan. The disadvantage is you are never sure where you stand. They are a good deal if you know the rates are going to drop or hold steady. Lending agencies encourage them because they protect them against getting stuck with low-interest loans on their books.

When you play the game of interest-rate roulette, beware, for the longer the term of the loan, the higher the stakes.

Another mistake for young adults and married women to consider is not building a credit history. As high school students go on to college, many need to use credit for effective management. To secure a credit history for themselves, students should get a credit card in their own name rather than an "authorized user" card from their parents' account—that is, provided they can manage the account. A woman who is married without a credit history should apply for a retail store card in her own name rather than a joint account with her husband.

A third mistake very common today is taking a line of credit at favorable interest rates by being willing to pledge the equity in your home as collateral. Since you stand to lose the roof over your head, you should consider such a loan only if you are in stable financial shape and can keep a tight rein on your borrowing.

Self-service pumps

People who pump their own gas tend to neglect other vehicle items that need attention. A car's performance can deteriorate without necessary service. Of 200 cars surveyed by AAA Motorist's Association, 51 percent needed oil, 45 percent had low or corroded batteries, and 12 percent had unsound hoses.

TOPDRESSING PASTURES

Winter pasture crops are trying to grow but recent cold weather has them struggling. Grazing crops must have nitrogen fertilizer applied to produce the forage needed during late winter and early spring according to Bill McKie, Area Agronomy Specialist.

Fall seeded pastures that have had no fertilizer recently need topdressing as soon as practical. Grazing crops can effectively use about one lb. of actual nitrogen for each day of heavy grazing. Most pastures can profitably use 65-70 lbs. of nitrogen (200 lbs. A. Nitrate or 150 lbs. Urea) per acre where they will be grazed into early May.

Apply nitrogen fertilizer only when the crop foliage is dry. Nitrate poisoning problems would not be expected with these rates of nitrogen, provided a balanced soil fertility program is being followed and cattle are supplemented with grain and/or hay during and after periods of plant stress; particularly during warm, cloudy conditions following cold, wet, overcast periods.

Avoid potholes when topdressing, as fertilizer applied into standing water can add to nitrate poisoning potential when cattle drink from these areas. Leave a buffer strip on nitrated areas around ponds especially if no sodded run-off strips were left unplowed when seedbed was prepared. Carelessly applied nitrogen can often be the source of nitrate poisoning problems.

Overseeded or sod-seeded ryegrass on permanent pasture sods along with fescue stands need 60+ lbs. nitrogen if areas are to be grazed throughout spring. Applying this rate of nitrogen after mid-March to overseeded pastures will often cause ryegrass to grow longer and delay early summer growth of bahiagrass or bermudagrass.

Grazed all overseeded pastures heavily in April and early May.

Plan to graze out overseeded permanent sods and leave seedbed planted ryegrass for harvest as hay or silage.

Clover stands are beginning to grow but where trampling is heavy, they are thin and developing slowly. Evaluate clover fields on an individual basis to determine management needed. Where a good stand of clover is growing with the grass, nitrogen may be reduced or omitted if clover is well nodulated and is producing vigorous, deep green foliage.

All well nodulated clover should be fixing nitrogen as growing conditions improve. If clover is not well nodulated and vigorously growing and grazing is needed, applying 30-40 lbs. actual nitrogen per acre will greatly increase the total forage produced, particularly through mid-March. Nitrogen fertilization on clover is suggested only where plants are showing a definite need for nitrogen.

Montjoy to attend national conference

Paul D. Montjoy of Bay St. Louis has been elected a delegate to the National White House Conference on Small Business.

Under the theme "In the Spirit of Enterprise," Mississippi small business people met Wednesday, Feb. 19, in Jackson at the Holiday Inn Downtown to discuss issues and problems of concern and to put forth specific and comprehensive recommendations for the future of small business.

During the day-long series of meetings, Montjoy was elected, along with 13 others, to represent Mississippi at the National White House Conference on Small Business to be held in Washington, D.C., August 17-21.

Montjoy is president of Gulf Coast Waste, a waste collection and industrial service firm located in Bay St. Louis.

In accordance with Public Law No. 98-276, the White House Conference is holding meetings in all 50 states, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico.

Mississippi was the 36th such conference prior to the National Conference.

UNDERSTANDING EMINENT DOMAIN

Q. Part of some property I own may be taken by the city for a city park. While I know that they have the right to take it, I am unclear as to exactly how eminent domain works. Could you explain it to me?

R. B., Meridian

A. Dear R. B.:
The right of government to take ownership of privately-held real estate, regardless of the owner's wishes, is called eminent domain.

Land for schools, freeways, streets, parks, public housing and other social and public purposes is obtained this way.

Quasi-public organizations, such as utility companies and railroads, are also permitted to obtain land needed for utility lines, pipes and tracks by state law.

The legal proceeding involved in eminent domain is a condemnation proceeding, and the property owner must be paid the fair market value of the property taken from him.

The actual condemnation is usually preceded by negotiations between the property owner and an agent of the public body wanting to acquire ownership.

If the agent and the property owner can arrive at a mutually acceptable price, the property is purchased outright.

If an agreement cannot be reached, a formal proceeding of eminent domain is filed against the property owner in a court of law.

The court hears expert opinions from appraisers brought by both parties and then sets the price the property owner must accept in return for the loss of ownership.

When only a portion of a parcel of land is being taken, severance damages may be awarded in addition to payment for land actually being taken.

Such compensation is intended to pay the owner for the loss in value suffered through the partial taking of his or her property.

DEDICATION OF LAND

Q. I recently read where a local real estate developer was dedicating some land to the city. Would you explain what this term means? J. J., Jackson

A. Dear J. J.:
When an owner makes a voluntary gift of his land to the public, it is known as a dedication.

To illustrate, a land developer buys a large parcel of vacant land and develops it into streets and lots. The lots are sold to private buyers, but what about the streets?

In all probability, they will be dedicated to the town, city, or county.

By doing this, the developer, and later the lot buyers, will not have to pay taxes on the streets, and the public will be responsible for maintaining them.

The faster way to accomplish the transfer is by either statutory dedication or dedication by deed.

In statutory dedication, the developer prepares a map showing the streets, has the map approved by local government officials, and then records it as a public document.

In dedication by deed the developer prepares a deed that identifies the streets and grants them to the city.

In addition to dedicating land that will be used for streets, land is also dedicated for parks and open space, schools, fire and police stations and other public uses.

A drive through a recently developed subdivision may show you such space. If so, the land was more than likely dedicated by the developer to the local government.

In addition to saving the developer the time and expense of upkeep on this land, dedication may also help him sell the lots that are available for building.

Consumers like open space as well as enough land for the necessary public uses such as roads and schools.

For answers to questions, write Dr. Dennis Tosh, P. O. Box 295, University, Mississippi 38677.

GUEST OF HONOR

Acclaimed composer Luigi Zaninelli of Hattiesburg will be the guest of honor at Mississippi ETV in Jackson when one of his works, "Americana," is performed at a very special concert—one that is expected to set a world record for the largest concert ever. The event will take place at 11:30 a.m., Tuesday, March 18.

At that time, Mississippi ETV will join thousands of school choruses, bands and orchestras around the nation to perform the same musical program at the same time. The selections to be played and sung are "The Star-Spangled Banner," "Music and Kids," "This Land is Your Land," "It's a Small World," "Washington Post March" and "Americana."

Participants across the nation will be linked together by public television. The cue to begin will be given by a signal from the conductor's baton at Constitution Hall in Washington, D.C., where the United States Air Force Band and Singing Sergeants will lead the concert. The event has been planned to focus national attention on the importance of music education in schools.

NATIONAL REGISTER—The apartment and antique shop of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Klempeter at 506-B South Beach Blvd. at the corner of Washington Street in Bay St. Louis will be open to the public from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. during the Bay-Waveland Garden Club Tour Thursday, March 27. The tour is conducted in conjunction with the Mississippi Gulf Coast Council of Garden Clubs 1986 Spring Pilgrimage. This house was originally constructed in 1890 by W. H. Yenni as a store, later burned, was rebuilt in 1894 and has remained virtually unchanged since with the exception of a small addition at the rear built in the 1920s. The building is in the National Register of Historic Places and now houses an apartment and an antique shop which sells many of the same articles originally sold in the Yenni store. 16th Section leases drawn before 1978 to be reviewed

Secretary of State Dick Molpus said this week begins the last phase of the fourth and final step in a series of actions designed to improve Sixteenth Section lands revenues.

The final phase calls for the school districts to review all Sixteenth Section leases executed prior to July, 1978. Those leases that are found to be executed for less than fair price will be required to be renegotiated.

A review of leases compiled in the Office of the Secretary of State indicated that of the 6,188 active leases entered into prior to 1978, 3,423 were for single lump sum payments not providing annual rental income.

Of the 2,765 leases providing annual income, over 40 percent were achieving 20 cents or less per acre, while in excess of 70 percent were generating one dollar or less per acre.

Molpus stated in his letter to school board members, "Many have raised the argument that these leases are a binding contract."

As you discovered with the post-1978 leases, some leases were executed for adequate consideration according to land values at the time of execution.

These are valid contracts. On the other hand, some leases were executed for less than a reasonable competitive price.

They are illegal leases and comprise an unconstitutional donation of public lands and therefore are not valid contracts."

"This final action will permit the successful completion of our efforts to fully implement the 1978 Sixteenth Section School Trust Lands Act begun by this office less than two years ago. By July 1 of this year, with the cooperation of local school board officials, I expect to be able to report that the Act has been fully and successfully implemented in all 100 school districts that manage public school lands," said Molpus.

The conclusion of this last step will complete efforts begun in 1984 affecting 644,000 acres in 100 school districts in 67 counties. In the first step, all school districts forwarded their Sixteenth Section land records to the Secretary of State's Office.

The second step required that appraisals be attached to all new leases after August 27, 1984.

Step three involved the review and renegotiation of illegal leases executed since July 1, 1978. Because of the complexities of the fourth step, several phases were required beginning with review and disposal of all top-leases.

These leases were apparent efforts to circumvent the reforms of the 1978 Act. The second phase required the review for legality and adequacy of payment of those leases in 42 school districts which have 99 year municipal leases.

Reflections

Waveland United

The other day someone tacked a note on the front door of Main Street Church which read, "Why do you lock this door when there is nothing to be taken other than God's word?"

A rather interesting comment, wouldn't you say? And one which presents some difficulty in proper interpretation. But one thing is clear: someone wanted to get in for some reason and couldn't.

The decision to lock sanctuaries is a by-product of the times in which we live. Yet this necessity continues to cause me inner grief.

Obviously, there is more to be taken - sound equipment, fixtures, and even furniture. In addition, there is vandalism. Insurance companies almost mandate the locking of facilities.

Yet our unknown friend obviously needed to come in. While I recognize that the facility is only a building of wood, brick and nails, it is also a symbol of hope, and to some - sanctuary.

The ethereal atmosphere of the sacred place was not available at a time when it was needed. This is not a new dilemma.

The "Holy of Holies" was that inner part of the old Jerusalem Temple that was sealed off from the people by a thick veil - but this veil was torn asunder during the Crucifixion.

I don't have answers. But I cannot help but wonder about this stranger who is "out there" somewhere wandering around - perhaps alone - trying to find meaning - or purpose - or God.

Tigers defeated in spring game

BY DENA BISNETTE
The Bay St. Louis High School Tigers were defeated in their spring football game 19-6 Friday by the Pearl River Central Blue Devils.
According to Bay High Head Coach Cleland Williams, a spring game is more important for trying out new players than winning.
Williams said he and assistants G.L. McRaney and Bob Lumpkin will use the results of the game to determine some of the points they will work on in fall practice.
"We made a lot of defensive errors, but that's to be expected when you have a lot of young kids. When you're preparing for a game situation you have to forget about teaching fundamentals," Williams said.
"Overall, I'd have to say we played a pretty decent game."
Most of Bay High's defense is new, with only two or three of last year's starters expected to return in the fall. In Friday night's game, the line appeared weak in the center and correcting that is one of the improvements the Tigers will have to make.
"Pearl River Central played what was basically an errorless game, but during the first half we kept ourselves deep in our own territory with too many penalties. We didn't have a chance to score," he added.

The coach said many of the 47 players out for the spring game had never played football before and are expected to improve with practice.
He also said he hopes to keep the number of players high for the regular season in order to get a good B-team program started.
"I really believe we're going to play some good ball this coming year," Williams said. "These kids show good spirit and some hustle."
The Blue Devils used an outside run to get around the Tiger defense late in the first half for a touchdown, then missed a PAT kick to take a six-point lead.
In second quarter action, the Blue Devils scored again on a short run and followed up with a successful PAT to increase the lead to 13 points.
The Tigers scored with 8:39 in the fourth on a pass from Questin Bell to Todd Mannion, but an attempt at a two point conversion failed.
With a little more than one minute left, Pearl River Central raised the final score to 19 to 6 with a touchdown on a short run.
In the junior high game, Pearl River Central defeated the Tigers 7-0.

Accident injures three

BY DENA BISNETTE

Three people received minor injuries Friday morning when two cars collided at Second Street and Carroll Avenue in front of Bay Junior High.

Bay Police Officer Pam Clark said the cause of the accident was a missing stop sign on Carroll Avenue, which apparently caused the driver approaching the school to go through the intersection without stopping.

A city crew replaced the stop sign immediately after the accident.

Those involved in the accident included Nona Favre of Lake Charles, La.; and Viola Perkins and her passenger, Bernadette Marino, both of Bay St. Louis.

According to Hospital Community Relations Director Mary Perkins, all three were treated at Hancock General Hospital and released following the accident, which occurred about 9 a.m.

Officers Clark and Mike Hannah investigated the incident. Assisting at the scene was Mobile Medic Ambulance Service.

Bay-Waveland kindergarten registration scheduled this week

Kindergarten registration for the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District is scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday.

The district will provide kindergarten for all children wishing to attend who are five years of age on or before Sept. 1.

Registration will be held at Waveland Elementary School, St. Joseph Street from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

All kindergarten students will be housed at this center.

Kindergarten students must be accompanied by parents with birth certificate proving that the child will be five years old as of Sept. 1.

All kindergarten students must have six immunization shots for the 1986-87 school term—diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough, polio, measles and rubella.

Parents must secure the special school certificate (blue slip) from the local health department or a private physician.

"Each child is unique and we will do everything we can to see that your child gets the type of education that is right for him or her. We are looking forward to working with you," said James Baldree, Waveland Elementary principal and district kindergarten director.

J. D. McCullough, district superintendent, emphasized kindergarten attendance is optional under the state's mandatory school attendance law.

The superintendent pointed out attendance will be mandatory in September for first, second and third graders.

The law, which went into effect for first graders in September, 1984, increases by one grade each year in its requirements.

Outlook bleak for Hancock farmers

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Hancock County farmers, along with farmers across the country, are facing increasingly difficult times with little or no hope for immediate relief.

"Agriculture at this time is in extremely bad shape and the local situation is comparable with that of many farmers from other areas of the country who have experienced severe financial stress and bankruptcy," Hancock County Agent Lee Taylor said.

Taylor returned this week from a week's stay at Mississippi State University where he received information on the most recent developments in agriculture in this state and throughout the country.

"Problems generally beyond the control of the farmers including increasing production costs and lower profit margins have led to the current situation," he said.

"You can not apply the same level of management and high input costs as in the past and be able to compete on the market today," Taylor added.

"Farmers are faced with a tough decision, in the face of continuously decreasing profits and major investments in land and equipment," he said.

Generally farmers are not looking for a handout but simply a way to make a living and support their families, Taylor said.

Taylor also said farm-lending agencies are contacting farmers even $100 delinquent to reevaluate loans.

"We probably will not know the full impact of the situation until spring planting figures are compared with 1985 figures," he said.

Taylor said the outlook for soybean, one of the main crops grown in Hancock County, is not favorable.

Estimates show that the break-even price for growing soybeans in this area is $8.60 per bushel but the market price is expected to be approximately $5.

"I am sending a letter out to all area farmers to use 'bare bone' techniques in farming this season," Taylor said.

This means keeping production costs as low as possible, he explained.

Methods recommended to do this include not using low-producing or weedy fields and making as few as possible trips in the fields with tractors.

One factor contributing to the problem is the expected cuts in the federal agriculture budget.

Although agriculture only makes up three percent of the federal budget, cuts of up to 27 percent are expected, Taylor said.

In Mississippi, cuts are expected to reach more than $12 million to agriculture and agricultural institutions in the state.

Another topic of discussion at the recent session was the federal farm bill.

As the farm bill is more closely examined it appears that there will be less and less help for the farmers, he said.

Taylor said the conservation preservation provision included in the farm bill is designed to preserve the natural resources of the land by not planting it to deter erosion.

This may provide some assistance for area farmers, he said.

"In this provision farmers can benefit from taking land out of production," he added.

In many cases the land is marginal cropland and should not be farmed anyway because of the rate of erosion, he said.

In this program farmers will make bids on what amount they will accept to take the acreage out of production for at least 10 years.

During that time period, only timber or grass can be planted on the land and if grass is planted, it can not be grazed or cut for hay.

But Taylor said only a few farmers would qualify for the program because the requirements to qualify for the program had been raised.

"Normally farmers lose about 18 tons of topsoil per year but to qualify for the program they would have to lose three times that amount," he added.

"We do not have any land in Hancock County with that steep of a slope to have erosion on that large of a scale," Taylor said.

However, Taylor said he knew of some area farmers who were applying anyway.

"I feel like the government would like to have as many farmers as possible working but with the least amount of money," he said.

The Griffin's are active in the First Baptist Church of Bay St. Louis.

Judge Griffin served as town attorney for Eupora and was elected as Webster County prosecutor and also served as the county school board attorney.

In Hancock County he served as attorney for the supervisors, school board, planning and zoning commission and also for the City of Bay St. Louis.

He held the distinction of being president of both the Bay St. Louis Rotary Club and the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce in August 1969 when Hurricane Camille struck the county.

"As president of the chamber, I was involved in the formation of the Hancock County Fair, and it had to be canceled because of Camille in 1969. I was re-elected chamber president in 1970, the first year of the county fair," Griffin added.

Prior to moving to Hancock County, Griffin was appointed assistant State Attorney General by Gov. J.P. Coleman in 1955 and served for 10 years, primarily under Joe Patterson.

High court upholds Guilbeau assailant's conviction

Frank T. Malone, 41, of Gulfport turned himself in to the Hancock County Sheriff's Department Wednesday after his conviction and sentence on an armed robbery charge were affirmed by the Mississippi Supreme Court.

Malone, who was sentenced to 11 years in the state penitentiary at Parchman following his conviction in 1983, has been out on bond pending his appeal.

Malone is one of six people originally accused of participating in the armed robbery of Virginia Guilbeau of Kiln on the night of Jan. 16, 1982.

The court, in upholding the Hancock County Circuit Court conviction of Malone, said, "We regard it as a most reasonable inference that Malone was in this armed robbery up to his neck."

At Malone's trial Guilbeau testified that she was struck on the head by an assailant as she approached the door of her home on Firetower Road with keys in one hand and a pistol in the other.

According to testimony, her assailant took her gun, purse, cash and diamond jewelry worth more than $150,000 including a ring worth $65,000.

A key witness in the trials of Malone and James Conley, described as masterminds of the robbery, was Marilyn Page of Pascagoula, the actual assailant, who received a three-year prison sentence after pleading guilty to an armed robbery charge.

Conley's 1983 conviction was affirmed by the Supreme Court in November. He also received an 11-year sentence.

Malone insisted at his trial that he had no knowledge of any robbery and was not aware that the jewelry brought to his home on Jan. 16 was stolen.

But Page testified that the robbery was discussed with the group in Malone's home. She said she and Conley mapped details, and Malone gave her $500 for her part.

In his appeal, Malone argued that the verdict was against the weight of the evidence, but Robertson said there was inadequate evidence to overturn the trial court refusal to grant a new trial.

ALCOHOLICS DON'T SUFFER BY THEMSELVES...

THE WHOLE FAMILY SUFFERS.

It's not an unusual story. Take a successful individual who has everything going for him. Great family, promising career and life's daily problems he tries to solve with alcohol — and sometimes drugs. Eventually, his problems will grow to include chemical dependency. Can his family handle that?

What about the successful business woman? She's attractive, personable — and an alcoholic. Her favorite hobby — drinking martini's at lunch and after work. How long can she stay on top? Her home life as a wife and mother has already turned into a nightmare for her family.

ALCOHOLICS DON'T SUFFER ALONE.

At GULF OAKS HOSPITAL & CLINIC, chemical dependence is viewed as a family illness and recovery for the entire family is considered essential. If a family member or close friend is destroying their life by alcohol or drug indulgence, they need help. Professional medical help. At GULF OAKS, family involvement is an integral part of our program. Team members work with the family to help them understand the patient's problem as an illness.

DON'T SUFFER ALONE. HELP IS AVAILABLE — AND SO NEAR.

ORDINANCE #285
AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF BAY ST. LOUIS, MISSISSIPPI, PROVIDING THAT THE CODE OF ORDINANCES OF SAID CITY BE REVISED BY ADDING CHAPTER 104, ENTITLED "DRAINAGE" TO SAID CODE OF ORDINANCES. BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF BAY ST. LOUIS, MISSISSIPPI, AS FOLLOWS:

SECTION 1. That the Code of Ordinances of the City of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, be revised to include Chapter 104, Drainage, as follows:

SECTION 104.1 PURPOSE
The purpose of this chapter is to promote the health, safety, and welfare of the citizens of Bay St. Louis by: draining developed areas to prevent damage to public and private property; draining rainwater from public rights of way to preserve structural integrity of the city's streets; and reducing standing water and other flood conditions which may cause health problems.

SECTION 104.2 POLICIES
a. Natural drainage patterns shall be maintained as much as practical.
b. Any alteration which restricts, inhibits, or otherwise diminishes the flow capability of any drainage way is contrary to the public interest and shall not be permitted, unless compelling evidence and technical analyses show otherwise, or unless specifically allowed by these policies. The burden of proof shall be on the proponent of an alteration.
c. Drainage alterations shall be evaluated in the context of an entire drainage basin, with full consideration of the future development potential of an area.
d. Proponents of development and building projects should bear the cost of drainage alterations required to prevent the adverse drainage impacts of their projects on other properties, even if such alterations are required off-site from the location of the project.
e. Except for residential driveway culverts, proponents should bear the cost of analysis required to evaluate the impact of the alterations on other properties.
f. Permits for driveway access culverts shall be granted by the Mayor. The only stipulations on these permits shall be as to size, grade, elevation, and material for the culvert. This preferred permitting of driveway culverts excludes enclosing drainage ditches.
g. Enclosing or restricting drainage ways is discouraged, unless there is a demonstrated public health or safety reason, and analysis shows that the proposed alterations will not cause flooding damage whether up stream or down stream, considering full future developments of the drainage basin involved. Enclosing of drainage ways for aesthetic purposes, or to improve the development potential of land are not, in and of themselves, sufficient reasons for alterations of a drainage way.
h. Private property owners shall be responsible for the structural condition of their driveway culverts, culverts in ditches, frontage, and other drainage structures pursuant to the private use of property.
i. All alterations of drainage ways shall be planned for long term endurance. Constructed improvements shall be structurally sound, considering the long term effects of erosion, scouring, settling, and material degradation. Culvert crossings of public streets and heavily travelled driveways shall be concrete or a comparably strong and durable material. In the interest of economy, galvanized metal culverts are allowable for lightly travelled driveways, although more durable materials are encouraged. Untreated corrugated metal culverts are prohibited, except for makeshift temporary use of less than one year.
j. Recognizing that the proper design and installation of drainage improvements frequently requires work throughout a drainage basin and recognizing that this frequently cannot be accomplished concurrently, interim drainage improvements may be permitted with provisions for incorporating future changes and revisions.
k. Driveway culverts shall be sized for a minimum two year storm frequency, using the rational method with a minimum runoff coefficient of 0.5, or comparably acceptable engineering formulae, except where a longer storm frequency is required to prevent private or public property damage. Other drainage way alterations shall be planned for a minimum 10 year frequency. Lesser frequencies may be used where it can be demonstrated conclusively that property damage would not result from flooding. Greater frequencies may be required by the city where location and topographic characteristics create the risk of significant property damage from flooding.
l. Minimum culvert size shall be 16 inches, except at the upstream extremity of a drainage area where calculations show that a smaller size will handle the flow and where accumulated debris is not likely to block an inlet or culvert, in the interest of maintainability, culverts less than 16 inches in diameter shall not be permitted.

m. All drainage way alterations shall be designed for easy maintenance.
n. Temporary drainage provisions for construction projects shall be allowed. The size, material, grade, and elevation requirements may be relaxed for these installations, provided that they will not cause property damage and will have a fixed expiration date within one year of installation.
SECTION 104.3 PERMITS REQUIRED TO ALTER DRAINAGE WAYS
A permit is required to alter the flow of water in any drainage way. Unless a permit has been granted under this ordinance, it shall be unlawful to alter, or cause to be altered, the flow in any drainage way, whether intentionally or unintentionally as a result of other activities such as adjacent construction or filling of land.

SECTION 104.4 ISSUANCE OF PERMITS
a. Two types of permits are available from the city: independent permits specifically covering a drainage alteration and adjunct permits issued in conjunction with a building permit or subdivision approval.
b. Independent Permits: Independent permits shall be issued by the mayor or the mayor's designee upon application on forms provided by the city. The forms shall require a description of the proposed alteration, its location, and the reason for the proposed alteration. Additional information on both upstream and downstream characteristics and on calculations of flows and storage capabilities may be required. The fee shall have ten (10) working days from the submission of the application to approve or disapprove the permit. Failure to act on a permit application within the ten (10) day period shall be considered disapproval of such application.
c. Adjunct Permits: The convenience of applicants, a permit to alter a drainage way may be applied for in conjunction with a building permit or application for subdivision approval. If an adjunct permit is desired, the applicant shall so state in writing, and shall describe specifically the alteration proposed, providing the same information required for an independent permit. The adjunct permit application shall be considered concurrent with the building permit or the subdivision approval request. An adjunct permit shall be valid only for those alterations specifically approved by the applicant and specified on the building permit or the subdivision approval request.

SECTION 104.5 APPLICATION FEES
The mayor shall establish and update as necessary a schedule of application fees which shall reasonably cover the actual costs of receiving and evaluating different categories of permit applications. The applicant shall be responsible for the cost of the driveway culvert installation shall be uniform, regardless of the size, and shall be the minimum fee on the schedule.
e. Appeals: Applicants may appeal a decision of the mayor's office, stating in writing the reasons for the appeal, and providing any supplemental information that may assist in the re-evaluation.
SECTION 104.6 ABATEMENT, ENFORCEMENT, AND FINES
a. Notice to Abate: If an alteration of a drainage way is made, or is about to be made, or if a permit having been issued, the mayor shall cause the party responsible (whether owner, occupant, lessee, contractor, or agent) to be overtly being prepared for, without a notice requiring the alteration to cease and appropriate restoration to be made within a reasonable period of time specified by the mayor. Any person failing to comply with said notice shall be deemed in violation of this ordinance. Upon any person's failure to comply with said notice, the city is authorized to take any reasonable steps necessary to cause the alteration to be removed, and the cost of abatement shall be paid by the responsible party in addition to any fines levied.
b. Person found guilty of violating this Ordinance shall be subject to a fine up to $1,000.00, plus the costs of abatement of an unauthorized drainage way alteration. The cost of abatement shall be suspended by the municipal court.
c. Drainage way: Any ditch, culvert, gutter, gutter, gully, or other structure which conveys natural or man made catch basin, drainage inlet, topographic grade, or other structure which conveys rainwater from two or more lots.
d. Lot: A piece, parcel, or plot of land occupied or intended to be occupied by one main building, or a group of buildings, accessory buildings, customarily incidental to such main buildings, held under single ownership.
SECTION 2. That all Ordinances or parts of Ordinances in conflict with this Ordinance are hereby repealed.
SECTION 3. That this Ordinance shall become effective exactly 30 days from the date of its passage. The Mayor is directed to cause the foregoing ordinance to be printed, considered, section by section, and then as a whole, whereupon Councilmember Johnson, moved for its adoption, and after a second by Councilmember Wilkerson, the following roll call vote was had:
Voting Yea: Councilmembers Johnson, Wilkerson, Thriftley, Coward, and Seymour.
Voting Nay: None
Whereupon President Seymour declared the foregoing Ordinance passed this 21st day of January, 1986.

World Day of Prayer planned Friday

World Day of Prayer will be celebrated Friday in more than 140 countries and 33 islands by Christians united in study, liturgy and prayer.
The World Day of Prayer is observed the first Friday in March every year and is the oldest and most widely known joint celebration of prayer among all the various churches.
The first observance was the idea of one woman, a busy mother of seven children, who somehow found time to be the president of the Women's Board of Home Missions of the Presbyterian Church, U.S.A., and to administer the Women's Executive Committee of Home Missions.
The idea was conceived as she encountered the problems left in the wake of the Civil War and saw the plight of thousands of immigrants coming to our shores from Europe and the Orient.
These problems seemed beyond solution - humanly speaking. But prayer - a National Day of Prayer for Home Missions - might work. Mrs. Darwin James turned the idea into action and a Celebration was born.
About the same time, Mrs. Helen Barrett Montgomery and Mrs. Henry Peabody returned from a visit to overseas mission fields and felt that they must help provide education for women in those lands, and literature for them to read.

How were they to do it? They took a lot of prayer! Groups of Western Christian women began to meet to pray for their missionary movement.
But the world was one, and as more denominations participated in the adventure, the two national prayer days drew together until by 1919, they had been combined.
As women developed reciprocal relationships with women in other lands, their understanding matured and World Day of Prayer became a mutual sharing of concern.
Prayers were for the world by the whole world.
Twelve years ago, the United Methodist Women of the Main Street United Methodist Church in Bay St. Louis voted to host a united prayer service on a local basis and invite the other churches to participate.
Members of several churches agreed to cooperate and the community united prayer observance became a reality.
This service of worship is open to men and women. It is interdenominational, interracial, and ecumenical in nature.

The event was hosted by Main Street United Methodist Church in 1975 and 1976; the Lutheran Church of the Pines, Waveland, in 1977; Christ Episcopal Church in 1978; First Missionary Baptist Church in 1979; and the First Presbyterian Church in 1980.
Main Street United Methodist had the service again in 1981 followed by the Assembly of God Church in 1982 and the First Baptist Church in 1983.
In 1984, the World of Faith Assembly in Kiln hosted the service followed by the Central Baptist Church on US-90 in 1985.
The congregation and ministers of these churches have made their visitors welcome and the services without exception have been inspiring and worthwhile.
For community prayer service this year it will return to Main Street United Methodist Church at 10 a.m. on Friday. The service will last one hour.
People from all over the world will be joining and praying in a united expression of faith and thanksgiving.

'Speaking Oracles of God'

Bay St. Louis

God's remedy for sin

Paul stated concerning Christ, "For He hath made Him to be sin for us, who knew no sin; that we might be made the righteousness of God in Him." (I Corinthians 5:21)
Jesus Christ had no personal sin. The Hebrew writer said of him, "...but was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin." (Hebrew 4:15)
But Paul said of man, "All have sinned, and come short of the glory of God." (Romans 3:23)
The penalty for sin is eternal death. Paul tells of the origin of sin and the penalty. "Wherefore, as by one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin, and so death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned." (Romans 5:12)
Jesus said the wicked are to go "into everlasting fire prepared for the devil and his angels." (Matthew 25:41)
In this place they "...shall be tormented day and night forever and ever." (Revelations 20:10)
Also it is described as "...outer darkness: There shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth." (Matthew 25:30)
Of the wicked it is said, "And shall cast them into a furnace of fire: There shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth." (Matthew 13:42)
Down through the centuries God had planned the salvation of man. As God cursed the serpent he said to him, "And I will put enmity between thee and the woman, and between thy seed and her seed; it shall bruise thy head, and thou shalt bruise his heel." (Genesis 3:15)
When Jesus arose from the dead, the devil's head was bruised. The Lord promised Abraham, "And I will bless them that bless thee, and curse him that curseth thee: and in thee shall all families of the earth be blessed." (Genesis 12:3)
Isaiah prophesied in the past tense concerning the Messiah, "He was oppressed, and He was afflicted, yet he opened not his mouth: he is brought as a Lamb to the slaughter as a sheep before her shearers is dumb, so he opened not his mouth...for he was cut off out of the land of the living; for the transgression of my people was he stricken." (Isaiah 53:2-8)

Philip in Acts 8:35 said Isaiah was prophesying of Jesus.
Paul tells us, "According as he hath chosen us in Him before the foundation of the world, that we should be holy and without blame before Him in love: having predestined us unto the adoption of children by Jesus Christ to Himself, according to the good pleasure of his will." (Ephesians 1:4-5)
God created man with the ability to make choices. He saw man would sin and need a savior. Paul wrote the churches of Galatia, "But when the fullness of time was come, God sent forth his son, made of a woman, under the law, to redeem them that were under the law, that we might receive the adoption as sons." (Galatians 4:4-5)
Our text says Christ was "made to be sin for us." John informs us,

"God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life." (John 3:16)
The penalty of sin is eternal punishment. (Romans 6:23; Revelations 20:10-15; Revelations 21:8)
The writer of Hebrews wrote, "...that He by the grace of God should taste death for every man." (Hebrews 2:9)
Does this mean salvation is for all men without condition?
If so the murderer, adulterer fornicator, drunkard would be just as well off as the most righteous and dedicated Christian.
In the great commission, Jesus gave the command to His apostles to preach the gospel to every creature. He then said "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be damned." (Mark 16:16)
This commission will last until the end of the world. (Matthew 28:20)
